

DENTAL EXTRACTION CONSENT FORM

I, _____ (Owner Name), owner or authorized representative for _____ (Pet Name), acknowledge that I have had the following information explained to me. Many pets require sedation before a doctor can complete a thorough dental exam. Since it is difficult to predict the extent of disease process on a rough visual exam, variations in cost may occur. In cases where further work is required and further expenses may result, every attempt will be made by the doctor to contact me to discuss the case. We recommend completing all needed dental procedures during this visit so you can avoid scheduling another appointment with additional anesthesia costs. If contact cannot be made at the phone numbers provided within 15 minutes and the nature of the procedure is deemed an emergency, a decision may have to be performed without prior notification. If the procedures are of a non-emergency nature (non-life threatening), and they are deemed both necessary and desirable for the health of the pet in the attending veterinarian's professional judgment, I prefer the following (PICK ONE):

<input type="checkbox"/> Have the doctor proceed with all procedures, including unforeseen tooth extractions, up to $_____cost IN ADDITION TO ESTIMATE. Please call to discuss the case if more work is needed beyond this cost. If I am unable to be reached, only part of the needed work will be done and the procedure may be finished at a later date. This will increase the total cost.	Initials:
<input type="checkbox"/> Have the doctor perform only the estimated treatments at this time.	Initials:

Post Dental Laser Therapy Photobiomodulation, commonly called laser therapy, targets your pets damaged cells and helps them regenerate faster. Much like sunlight helps a plant produce energy, laser therapy helps energize your pets cells. This drug-free, side-effect free treatment can be used as an adjunct to your pet's prescribed pain management and healing treatment plan.	$15-20	Initials:

Dental procedures, including simple and surgical extractions can be associated with risks. I understand these risks may include broken tooth roots, bleeding, and damage to surrounding tissues. Rarely, fractures of the bone may occur, necessitating further work. At our hospital, every effort is made to predict and avoid these complications but unforeseen events may occur. I understand that no guarantee for success can be given and that some risks are involved in all procedures. The risks have been explained to my satisfaction. I understand that in an emergency situation, the veterinarian may need to take action and give needed care and there may be additional charges.
